The Ann Arrundell County Historical Society proudly presents

NAVAL WARRIOR

The Life of Commodore Isaac Mayo

By Byron A. Lee

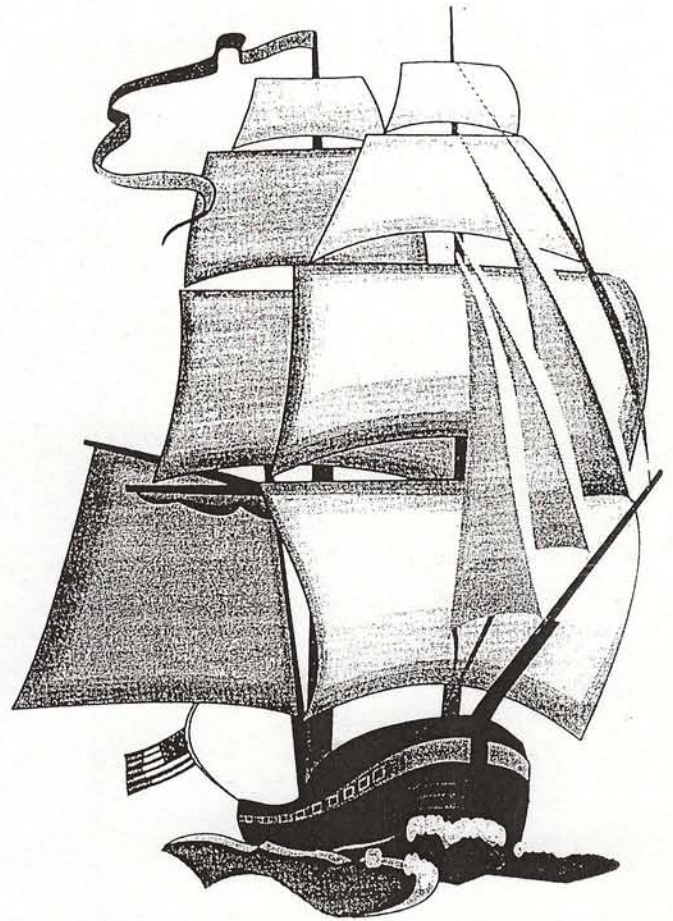

The fascinating career of one of Anne Arundel County's true heroes is ably chronicled by Byron A. Lee in a volume that is an excellent contribution to our local history.

Mayo's naval career spanned almost half a century, including gallant service in the War of 1812 and successful forays against pirates, slavers and insurgent Seminole Indians.

Lee's important book also details Mayo's personal life, his acquisition of a large estate in southern Anne Arundel County, and an extensive family genealogy.

Naval Warrior is a soft-bound volume of 247 pages, well illustrated, that will interest naval history buffs, local history aficionados and genealogists.

Byron A. Lee is a retired U.S. Navy Captain (Naval Academy Class of 1950) and former naval engineer. He lives with his wife in southern Anne Arundel Co. near the home of Commodore Isaac Mayo.
